Dear Mrs Hill:

I am writing you, because I am sure something must be wrong where Jimmie is concerned. I have written him several letters, and sent two telegrams, and have received answers from none of them.

On April, 6th, I sent him a railroad ticket to camp costing $30.00 and sent him $20.00 advance money which he had asked me for.

If for any reason he is not going to join the ballclub, I want him to send me the $20.00 and the ticket back right away. I will expect a reply from you within the next few days. The money was sent to him because of the request he made for it in his various letters, and the fact that I was expecting him to play with the club. The law does not allow anyone to accept money under false pretence.

I will be expecting a reply shortly.

Very Truly Yours
